

“Agilis encourages engineering talent at Suncoast Career Showcase”

January 17th, 2012 - Palm Beach Gardens, FL

Agilis joined over a hundred other professionals at the Suncoast High School Fourth Annual ‘Career Showcase’ on Friday, January 13, 2012 in an effort to provide insight, opportunity, and encouragement to high school students considering a career in mechanical and aerospace engineering.

The Career Showcase is a unique opportunity for the students to meet professionals in their career path. The students are prepared in advance by their teachers to maximize their time and equip them to interview the presenters. They are ready to ask the right questions to get an idea of what their future career choice is really like first-hand.¹

The Career Showcase allows Agilis to establish relationships with students who have an interest in mechanical and aerospace engineering. Our goal is to remain in contact with a number of students throughout their time in college in order to discuss internship opportunities and potential for future employment.

Agilis is extremely impressed by the level of enthusiasm and preparation exhibited by the students and faculty at Suncoast High School. We look forward to working closely with Suncoast to help these students make informed, resolute decisions about their professional future.
